Framing	Emergency caused by neoliberalism and an exploitative capitalist system. New Green Social Contract and just transition. Significant eco-social & economic transformations, 'integral ecology'.	Turn EGD into Green Social Deal. Existential threat, urgency of environmental and climate crisis. Global leadership.	Green Social Deal, Just Transition. EGD with red heart. No pause but abandon no one: sustainable wellbeing.	Just implement existing framework. Sustainability = guiding principle for economic policy. Tech. innovation & prioritise green investments.	EGD = hallmark for prosperous, innovative, competitive and sustainable EU. Further develop = economy and citizens. More tech. innovation, less bans & burdens.	Opposite approach on the EGD: a balanced, localised climate strategy that does not forget ordinary people and the economy. Focus on implementing, avoid new legislation and revise/revert part of it.

Details on security

- > How? (Green) industrial strategy, investments, reskilling, less bureaucracy. Some: infrastructures, deepening the single market.

Details on competitiveness

Framing	No mention of competitiveness, but framing of industry: ecological transition, labour rights, industrial sovereignty.	As an opportunity derived from greening industry. It's enabled through funding.	Serves sustainable wellbeing. Result of digital & green reindustrialisation, invest. & econ. sovereignty.	Single market structural competitiveness = THE EU's industrial strategy. Open strategic autonomy.	Result of sustained performance, climate protection, successful SM, freedom, social & political stability, investments, innovation, efficient bureaucracy.	Loss of competitiveness is the result of unreasonable objectives, misplaced priorities and impractical rules and de-industrialisation.
Priorities	No mention of competitiveness, but on industry: cancellation of all FTAs with global south and substitution by international agreements.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Green investments - Green Industrial Policy + support SMEs - Infrastructure Union - Simplify bureaucracy (digitalise) - Reskilling 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Investment plan (green + digital). - Economic sovereignty + security of supply (energy, raw materials, food, medicines) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Help industry + SMEs attract capital - Modernise Single Market - Administrative burdens (national, digitalisation) - Upskilling + migration 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Deeper Single Market - Industrial Strategy, skills. - Compet. check of policy - Invest: innovation, infrastr., jobs - Climate (+digital) leadership - Streamline regulations - Trade with like-minded 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Slash red tape and halt on new rules for SMEs. - Innovation and investment in digital technologies. - Promoting EU's artisanal methods and identity globally. - On energy sector: technology-neutral approach.

Details on just transition

Supporting people is central to EPP's narrative, but they reject a stronger EU social policy framework.

Cherish diversity , right to live in a free and just society. Fight trends that undermine principles of equality.	Citizen-centric EU. Protect people, leave no one behind . Econ. prosperity & competitiv. = social stability, social dialogue & worker rights; balance with market. EU social dimension = bureaucracy . Families support those in need.	Need to revise EGD is, in part, because it forgets ordinary people . New approach needs to prioritise well-being and enable a just transition with support to those affected.
Priorities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Massive investments for public services & just transition. - Prevent austerity. - Workers rights (basic income directive, guaranteed employment, migrants, working hours, AI) - Feminism (femicide, equal pay and parental leave) - Fight poverty (EU directive against social inequalities, housing, halt privatisation of education, healthcare, culture) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Secure livelihoods (access renewables, housing, renovations, cooling & heating, food, health, mobility). - Social rights, jobs, poverty, workers. - Social economy, invest, fair taxes, consumers. - Green Global Deal, decolon., fair trade. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Investments, tax justice - Support farmers - House renovations & energy prices - Workers rights, JTF, SCF, skills, trade unions. - Public services & mobility - Stronger EU social dimension 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Empower citizens to renovate houses - Direct local access to funds, CAP reform (support farmers & consumers) - Reskilling (women, migrants), protect consumers, SMEs & entrepreneurs 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Investments (no one behind, support farmers) - Further develop EGD to address consumers & farmers interests - Cohesion policy (social & territorial disparities) - Align energy policy with social & local - Empower trade unions 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Promote environmental and social sustainability while supporting our farmers, their families and rural communities.

What about parties' investment views?

Blog post with the main takeaways of the manifestos' analysis
